THURSDAY EVENING, SEPT. 29, 1904.

Striking School Boys. Fifty boy pickets stationed about the McAllister Public School, in Chicago, prevented pupils from entering yesterday. None of the pickets is more than 15 years old. Outside the picket cordon a crowd of 700 boys and girls hooted and yelled at the teachers looking from the school windows. Every young atriker wore a badge to show that he or she belonged to a "union." Some of the badges were merely scraps of paper with the word "Union" scrawled across it. Others wore union buttons, which their fathers had worn. Many of the strikers carried clubs. They threatened violence against any child daring to enter the school yard. The picketing was the result of a "strike" which was caused by a mistaken belief of the children that an assistant kindergarten teacher was colored. After a detail of six policemen had been sent to the school to preserve order the "strike" was "settled." A committee appointed by the youthful "strikers" learned that the rumor of a colored teacher having been employed in the school was false. About their classes. Truant officers began a search for the absentees.

Race Against Death.

In a wild race against death in her automobile yesterday afternoon Miss Eloise Breese, one of New York's richest heiresses, was chased 10 blocks along Fifth avenue by a bicycle policeman, and then arrested on the charge of violating the speed-limit ordinance. "Let me go," shrieked the young woman as the policeman overtook the machine at One Hundred and Tenth street. have just come in from Tuxedo at breakneck speed, so that I could reach the bedside of my dying mother." The po-liceman ignored the young woman's pathetic plea, placing her under arrest with her chauffeur. He boarded the automo-bile and was driven to the police station. Thence, the fair prisoner on the verge of hysterics, was taken to Harlem Court, where, after she had scheduled property, she was released. Then she again sprang into the machine, the chauffeur threw on the power and the auto sped away to the Breese home, where Miss Breese's mother lay at the point of death.
